Internal Family Systems Therapy
Level 1 IFS Training Program (1350)
Nickname: Clinicians of Color
August – December 2026
Online Training (Live, Real Time)
U.S. Eastern Time Zone

This training is organized for members of Clinicians of Color.

This training is part of IFSI's Community Access Programs (CAP) initiatives, a pathway to programming opportunities that embrace mental health equity, accessibility, and inclusivity. As such, many training participants will be affiliates of Clinicians of Color, an organization whose mission is to enhance visibility and celebrate the exceptional contributions of Black and Brown Clinicians in the Mental Health field. With over 12,000 members, Clinicians of Color continues to address disparities in the mental health arena as well as support the advancement of Mental Healthcare Professionals. To learn more about Clinicians of Color, visit www.cliniciansofcolor.org.

Members of Clinicians of Color are given priority access to register for this training. If there are remaining seats available, registration is extended to members of the Global Majority with approved General Applications.

> Global Majority is an evolution of the term 'people of color' that describes those who are of Indigenous*, African, Asian, Latin American and Arab descent, who have encountered societal projections resulting in lived experiences of being othered.
> The term global majority encompasses the vast majority of people worldwide, and is employed to demonstrate the strength of global solidarity without recentering white vantage points.
>
> Indigenous Peoples are distinct social and cultural groups that share collective ancestral ties to the lands and natural resources where they live or once lived, before displacement and colonization.*

The Internal Family Systems Model

Internal Family Systems (IFS) is a therapeutic model that views every human being as a system of protective and wounded inner parts guided by a core Self. It teaches that the mind is naturally multiple—and that this multiplicity is healthy—because, like members of a family, inner parts can be pushed into extreme roles but also have valuable inherent qualities. IFS helps people access their undamaged, compassionate Self, which knows how to heal, and from that inner leadership, understand and transform their parts, fostering both inner and outer connectedness.

Internal Family Systems: An Emerging Evidence Base, A Strong Foundation for More Research

The IFS Institute is committed to supporting rigorous research to establish the feasibility, acceptability, safety, and efficacy/effectiveness of the IFS therapeutic approach across different clinical presentations. Emerging evidence from small randomized clinical trials and quasi-experimental single-arm studies has highlighted the potential that IFS holds, with positive pilot studies among patients with depression and/or post-traumatic stress disorder. Multiple studies have demonstrated increases in self-compassion. The current body of research remains limited in scope, so well-designed randomized controlled trials (RCTs) with replication for each specific mental health condition are required to establish IFS as an evidence-based intervention for condition-specific mental health treatment indications. To date, reductions in depression are the only mental health condition that has demonstrated statistically significant improvement across multiple pilot RCTs. Larger fully-powered clinical trials are needed for each clinical indication. Finally, though several studies report high levels of acceptability, the risk of harm or adverse events needs to be systematically studied. The studies conducted thus far have provided valuable preliminary insights and represent a strong foundation for future research.

Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

Our goal at IFS Institute is to create learning environments and a community that teach and support the internal welcoming of parts that have been exiled, shamed, or marginalized within our systems so that they may be seen, heard, valued, and ultimately healed. Our hope is that this work will lead to greater Self leadership where all of us are more connected, curious, and compassionate with ourselves and with each other. Level 1 Training Certificate of Completion and Attendance Requirements

A Certificate of Completion (non-CE) is awarded by IFS Institute for the completion of the training. Participants must complete 76 of the 91 program hours offered to be eligible to earn this certificate.

- Over the course of the entire training, participants may miss a maximum of 15 training hours due to illness or other reasons.
- No recordings or transcripts are available for missed training hours.
- Participants are responsible for ensuring that they attend the required number of training hours to earn the Certificate of Completion.

IFS Certification

Earning the Certificate of Completion for this training is not the same as being IFS Certified. Completion of this IFS Training Program does not guarantee eligibility to engage in the IFS Certification process. IFS Certification is a separate, advanced process that individuals can undertake to demonstrate IFS skills. To become IFS Certified, one must meet the prerequisites for, and successfully complete the IFS Certification process. Please visit IFS Institute Certification for details about prerequisites and other important information.
