

The Internal Family Systems Model

Internal Family SystemsSM is at the forefront of a movement toward a more collaborative therapeutic approach that relies on clients' intuitive wisdom. IFSSM offers a clear, non-pathologizing, and empowering view of human cognitive and emotional life and provides a dynamic therapeutic approach that allows both therapist and client to enter into a transformational relationship in which healing can occur.

Richard C. Schwartz, PhD, has been developing the IFS model for more than 30 years, with IFS now practiced by thousands of licensed therapists and other professionals throughout the United States and internationally. Mental health care professionals and others trained in the IFS model can easily integrate it into a wide variety of practices using the unique methods IFS offers to create safe environments for clients to become Self-transforming. Internal Family Systems therapy is a simple yet sophisticated integration of psychology, spirituality, and intra-psychic and family systems theory that:

Richard C. Schwartz

- Works well with couples, families, groups, and children;
- Can effectively treat trauma;
- Is a client-led approach that respects each client's pace and goals;
- Establishes a productive, trusting, and collaborative partnership between therapist and client;
- Helps therapists remain centered and open-hearted.

Internal Family Systems: An Evidence-Based Practice

Internal Family Systems (IFS) is now posted on NREPP as an evidence-based practice. NREPP is the National Registry for Evidence-Based Programs and Practices, a national repository that is maintained by the U.S. government's Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA). Interventions listed in NREPP have been subject to independent, rigorous scrutiny, and are deemed to show significant impact on individual outcomes relating to mental health.

As a clinical treatment, IFS has been rated effective for improving general functioning and well-being. In addition, it has been rated promising for improving each of: phobia, panic, and generalized anxiety disorders and symptoms; physical health conditions and symptoms; personal resilience/self-concept; and depression and depressive symptoms.

These scientific findings and the listing of IFS on NREPP affirm the vast potential of IFS therapy for advancing emotional healing and mental well-being. In particular, they indicate promising effects on mind (depression, anxiety), body (physical health conditions), and spirit (personal resilience and self-concept).

Curriculum

Overview: In addition to thoroughly learning IFS theory and technique, the Internal Family Systems Level 1 training program invites participants to explore their own inner worlds in a safe, nurturing context. The training will help participants:

- Understand the conceptual base of the IFS model;
- Apply basic IFS techniques to various clinical populations; and
- Take advantage of the opportunities IFS offers for personal development.

Learning Objectives: Please visit www.IFS-Institute.com, FAQ page.

Format: The training includes lecture, discussion, demonstration, video review, experiential exercise, and small group practice.

Program Hours:

This training comprises six, 3-day sessions totaling 90 program hours. Each 3-day session comprises 15 program hours. Session and daily schedules are listed later in this brochure.

Trainers

Lead Trainer: Rina Dubin, EdD, Lic. Psych., is a licensed psychologist in private practice in Massachusetts working with individuals and couples, and offering supervision and consultation. She has been involved with the IFS community for more than 10 years, and has a broad background in trauma. Rina loves being involved in the process of healing, and IFS has become a centerpiece in this work. She has been involved with IFSNE since its beginning, and as a member of its Steering Committee, is thrilled with the growth of IFS in New England.

Lead Trainer: Steven Krantz DSW, LCSW, is also full-time Associate Clinical Professor at Touro College, Graduate School of Social Work. Steve has a private psychotherapy and supervision practice on Long Island, NY, where he is also a well-known workshop presenter on mental health and substance abuse topics. Steve is passionate about teaching and community building and is known to use humor to facilitate this process.

Assistant Trainer: Kirsten M. Lundeberg, LPC, LMFT, has a private practice in Northern Virginia where she works with individuals and couples using the IFS model, and she provides supervision and consultation to individuals who use the IFS model in their practices. She credits IFS for the growth and healing she has experienced individually, and for how it has allowed her to deepen her work with her clients.
