
The Internal Family Systems Model

Internal Family SystemsSM is at the forefront of a movement toward a more collaborative therapeutic approach that relies on clients' intuitive wisdom. IFSSM offers a clear, non-pathologizing, and empowering view of human cognitive and emotional life and provides a dynamic therapeutic approach that allows both therapist and client to enter into a transformational relationship in which healing can occur.

Richard C. Schwartz, PhD, has been developing the IFS model for more than 30 years, with IFS now practiced by thousands of licensed therapists and other professionals throughout the United States and internationally. Mental health care professionals and others trained in the IFS model can easily integrate it into a wide variety of practices using the unique methods IFS offers to create safe environments for clients to become Self-transforming. Internal Family Systems therapy is a simple yet sophisticated integration of psychology, spirituality, and intra-psychic and family systems theory that:

*Richard C.
Schwartz*

- Works well with couples, families, groups, and children;
- Can effectively treat trauma;
- Is a client-led approach that respects each client's pace and goals;
- Establishes a productive, trusting, and collaborative partnership between therapist and client;
- Helps therapists remain centered and open-hearted.

Internal Family Systems: An Evidence-Based Practice

Internal Family Systems (IFS) is now posted on NREPP as an evidence-based practice. NREPP is the National Registry for Evidence-Based Programs and Practices, a national repository that is maintained by the U.S. government's Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA). Interventions listed in NREPP have been subject to independent, rigorous scrutiny, and are deemed to show significant impact on individual outcomes relating to mental health.

As a clinical treatment, IFS has been rated effective for improving general functioning and well-being. In addition, it has been rated promising for improving phobia, panic, and generalized anxiety disorders and symptoms; physical health conditions and symptoms; personal resilience/self-concept; and depression and depressive symptoms.

These scientific findings and the listing of IFS on NREPP affirm the vast potential of IFS therapy for advancing emotional healing and mental well-being. In particular, they indicate promising effects on mind (depression, anxiety), body (physical health conditions), and spirit (personal resilience and self-concept).

Curriculum

Overview: We are excited to offer you an IFS curriculum that builds on your Level 1 experiences. It features a similar format, including didactic, video review, and large group experiential and small group practice elements. So, like the Level 1 training, this Level 2 Intensive gives equal weight to didactic and experiential learning. The training:

- Concentrates on the challenges of treating clients who have extremely protective systems and/or have experienced childhood trauma.
- Focuses on expanding the participant's knowledge of essential processes unique to IFS, such as working with internal polarizations, working with dangerous firefighters, and unburdening.
- Emphasizes the importance of the therapeutic relationship by deepening the participant's awareness of and relationship to their own parts.
- Emphasizes the importance of the Self in both the client and therapist and includes many opportunities for self-exploration.

Format: The training includes lecture, discussion, demonstration, video review, experiential exercises, and small group practice.

Program Hours: The training runs for two, 3-day segments and has a total of 32 program hours. The daily schedule is available later in this brochure.

Learning Objectives: Please visit www.IFS-Institute.com, FAQ page.

Trainers

Lead Trainer: Pamela Krause, LCSW, is a senior IFS trainer with a private practice in Pennsylvania. In addition to leading Level 1, 2, and 3 IFS trainings, Pam has developed programs addressing the use of IFS with children and adolescents, and direct access in IFS. She wrote a chapter about using IFS with children and adolescents in Internal Family Systems: New Dimensions, and co-authored a chapter on using IFS and EMDR in EMDR Therapy and Adjunct Approaches with Children. Pam is also trained in Hakomi therapy and is known for her lively and compassionate approach in her work.

Assistant Trainer: Chris Ratte, LCSW, LCADC, has a deep love for sharing, teaching, and living the IFS model with others. He has worked in the fields of mental health and addiction in many treatment settings for more than 30 years. Presently, Chris is in private practice working with individuals and couples, and providing both individual and group supervision. Chris has found a home with IFS in his work with others, as a personal process, and as a member of the larger IFS community, and appreciates the opportunity to continue his healing journey alongside many beloved friends, mentors, and fellow IFSers.
